AMBITION

Spray Tech / Junair is the premier paint booth manufacturer of the high-performance automotive, truck, large equipment & aircraft paint booth finishing systems in Rialto, California. It aimed to increase its market share by inducting new leads into the sales funnel. Digital Maxima took the challenge of building an organic reputation for Spray Tech.

ACTION

Our team started with Website content optimization and lead funnel settlement. After making necessary changes, we set in place a local and national level SEO strategy for Spray Tech. There were a massive number of keywords to target because of the extensive product line. We nailed down the keywords based on the most productive in terms of user volume, and which could bring the most value to the company in terms of revenue.

At the beginning of the project, we set up backlink sources, built directories, created social media signals, optimized the Google My Business profile, and made necessary changes on the targeted landing pages on the company website.
